Crome Yellow (A Witty Masterpiece Lambasting the post-Victorian Standards) [5 Audio Cassettes]

Aldous Huxley

(5 Audio Cassettes) One of the greatest prose writers and social commentators of the 20th century, Aldous Huxley here introduces us to a delightfully cynical, comic and severe group of artists and intellectuals engaged in the most free thinking and modern kind of talk imaginable. On vacation from school, Denis goes to stay at Crome, an English country house inhabited by several of Huxley's most outlandish characters-- from Mr. Barbecue-Smith, who writes 1,500 publishable words an hour by "getting in touch" with his "subconscious," to Henry Wimbush, who is obsessed with writing the definitive HISTORY OF CROME. Denis's stay proves to be a disaster amid his weak attempts to attract the girl of his dreams and the ridicule he endures regarding his plan to write a novel about love and art. Lambasting the post-Victorian standards of morality, CROME YELLOW is a witty masterpiece that, in F. Scott Fitzgerald's words, "is too ironical to be called satire and too scornful to be called irony."
