This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1896 Excerpt: ...in matters of fundamental truth. The Republican platform of 1892 affirms that the American people, from tradition and interest, favored bi-metallism, and demanded the use of both gold and silver as standard money. This was accepted by us as a declaration in behalf of the principle upon which rests the interest of every citizen, and the safety of the United States. In such terms the platform was then satisfactory to the believers in bi-metallism within our party. Only because of equivocal construction and evasion has it since been demonstrated to be insufficient. The platform this day adopted in the National Republican Convention at St. Louis is as follows. (Here follows the financial plank of the platform just adopted). As the declaration of 1892 has been by a majority of the party construed to justify a single gold standard for a monetary basis, and as the recent trend of the official power of the party has been in that direction, we can but assume that the money plank of the new platform, which is much more favorable to gold monometallism, will be determinedly used in behalf of that idea. The Republican party has won its power and renown by maintaining its purposes courageously and relentlessly. It is therefore only in accordance with the party's history to assume that if it shall come into present authority in the United States, it will crystallize into law, an administration under this tempting platform the perpetual single gold standard in our finances. This, if long continued, will mean the absolute ruin of the producers of the country, and finally of the nation itself. The American people not only favor bi-metallism from tradition and interest, but from that wise instinct which has always been manifest in the affairs of a people destined for the worl...
